

C&O Marketing & Consulting Inc

Research Use Only Notice & Disclaimer

Research Use Only

C&O is a distributor of research-use-only peptides and related products. These products are supplied for legitimate research purposes consistent with their labeling and applicable law. C&O is not a medical practice, healthcare provider, pharmacy, or prescribing entity, and the sale of these products does not constitute a prescription or medical recommendation.

No Medical Advice

C&O and its representatives do not provide medical advice or individualized recommendations. This includes:

- Dosing or dosage recommendations
- Reconstitution or administration instructions for human use
- Treatment protocols, cycles, or frequency of use
- Recommendations regarding which peptide or product an individual should use
- Advice regarding medical conditions, side effects, contraindications, or drug interactions
- Prescriptions or authorization for medical use

Questions regarding dosing, administration, medical suitability, treatment, or personal use must be directed to an appropriately licensed healthcare professional.

Research Products

C&O does not prescribe research-use-only products for the diagnosis, treatment, cure, mitigation, or prevention of any disease or medical condition.

Educational materials, research information, and product information provided by C&O are for general informational and research purposes only and should not be interpreted as medical advice or a recommendation for human use.

Customer Responsibility

Customers are responsible for ensuring that the purchase, possession, handling, storage, research, resale, distribution, and use of products comply with all applicable laws and regulations.

C&O can assist with non-medical product questions, including availability, ordering, shipping, lot information, manufacturer-supplied storage information, and available product documentation.